

Dominion of India. The Dominion of India was a part of India -Empire of India which is an independent and sovereign State (Empire), but the Dominion of India is independent. Since lapses, the suzerainty over the Indian States on and after 15 August 1947 the States of Jammu and Kashmir and Tripura have not remained as a part of India - Empire of India; therefore, they became an independent and sovereign States with external sovereignty. The Indian States cannot accede to the Dominion of India by signing the Instrument of Accession on and before 14 August 1947 because external sovereignty of the Indian States as a part of India - Empire of India has been exercising by India under the Crown suzerainty.

The State of Jammu and Kashmir and Tripura has become a unit of the Union – Union of India since accession to the Dominion now a Union. It is a political Union. The Union is a group of sovereign States. The external sovereignty of the State of Jammu and Kashmir and Tripura are sharing with India - Empire of India since the States acceding to the Dominion of India now a Union of India. The Dominion of India became the State of India now a Union of India since 26 January 1950. India – State of India is a new State created by the Republic Constitution of India. It means that one constitution creates only one State.

Manipur is an independent and sovereign country in South Asia. The De jure Government of Manipur in exile in London now remind again to the Indian Government that does not interfere in the internal sovereignty of the State of Manipur. The Republic Constitution of India may be operated and confined in the territories of India, not in the territory of the independent Manipur.

The Naga Hills now Nagaland in India and Lushi Hills now Mizoram in India and Baluchistan in Pakistan was the Tribal Areas under the Government of India Act 1935 and the Indian Independence Act 1947. The Tribal Areas are a Tribe not a Kingdom nor a State. The Tribe is a progressive growth to become a Kingdom or State. We have every official document which is relevant to the present Naga issues of the Naga Hills now Nagaland in India. If the Indian Government has an intention to sit with the De jure Government of Manipur over the issues of the Naga Hills now Nagaland in India, in that case, we are always ready to sit with the Indian Government. The Tribal Areas can accede to the Dominion of India as provided a provision under Section 7 of the Indian Independence Act 1947. The people and citizen of the State of Manipur and the State of Burma who is living in these countries cannot be treated as an Indian. The De jure Government of Manipur repeatedly reminding to the Indian Government that please try to understand how the British made the political arrangement in India. The Indian Government had done many substantive illegal acts against the British law and international law in respect of the independent Manipur. It is also a fact that if Indian Government interfered in the political arrangement made by British laws His Majesty in Council has constitutional jurisdiction to justify the illegal acts of the Indian Government under Article 374(3) of the Republic Constitution of India. India, as a member of the United Nations, does not try to infringe in the internal sovereignty of the independent and sovereign State of Manipur. It is the right time for us to come together as a Nation.

"GOD SAVE MANIPUR"

Chief Minister of Manipur
